(3) MISSION/FUNCTION

WPAC advises the Secretary of Labor (Secretary) on ways to improve the fairness, efficiency, and transparency of OSHA's whistleblower investigations.

(4) POINTS OF VIEW

WPAC membership is established by the WPAC charter. WPAC will consist of 12 voting representative members appointed by the Secretary, one of whom the Secretary appoints to serve as chair. The composition of the WPAC will be as follows:

- Four members will represent Management in industries covered by the whistleblower laws;
- Four members will represent Labor in industries covered by the whistleblower laws;
- One member will represent the State OSH Plan states; and
- Three members will represent the public with extensive knowledge and expertise on whistleblower statutes and issues.

The management representative category is comprised of four employers and/or employer associations in industries who are the subject of investigations. The labor representative category is comprised of four workers, labor unions, and/or worker advocacy organizations that are the source of complaints. In addition, because 28 states and territories operate their own OSHA-approved State Plans and enforce whistleblower provisions related to Section 11(c) of the Occupational and Safety and Health Act 1970, one representative from the State Plan states will be included on the Committee. Finally, to assure that the Agency can draw upon public representatives who have extensive knowledge, experience and expertise on whistleblower issues, the Committee will also include three public representatives from colleges, universities, non-partisan think tanks, and/or other entities with substantial knowledge of and experience with whistleblower issues.

The Committee will also be informed by the inclusion of non-voting regular government employee representatives from other: 1) Department of Labor (DOL) agencies that are directly or indirectly involved in worksite investigations, such as DOL's Wage and Hour Division and 2) Federal Government agencies that have jurisdiction over statutes with whistleblower provisions, such as, the Securities and Exchange Commission (Sarbanes-Oxley Act) and the Department of Transportation's Federal Aviation Administration (Wendell H. Ford Aviation Investment and Reform Act for the 21st Century).

(5) OTHER BALANCE FACTORS

To the extent permitted by FACA and other laws, WPAC membership should also be consistent with achieving the greatest impact, scope and credibility among diverse stakeholders. The diversity in such membership includes, but is not limited to, race, gender, disability, sexual orientation and gender identity.

(6) CANDIDATE IDENTIFICATION PROCESS

The Occupational Safety & Health Administration (OSHA) will employ a multi-faceted approach to inform the general public, as well as the Department's workforce, regarding vacancies on the Committee; and the period and requirements for submitting nominations. The following steps are among those that OSHA will take to solicit a broad and diverse range of qualified candidates. OSHA will submit a public notice announcing the number of vacancies, the requirements for submitting nominations to OSHA, as well as the period for submitting nominations. To promote widespread notification of these vacancies, OSHA will also work with other agencies in the Department of Labor, other government agencies, and with diverse stakeholders throughout the country, including professional organizations, academia, and individuals, such as past members of the Committee. OSHA's outreach will include notification to those who have historically had limited awareness of and participation in the Committee and its activities but whose interests may be implicated or affected by the work and/or recommendations of the Committee.

OSHA will review all proposed candidates through the Department's internal vetting process to assure compliance with all legal and ethical requirements. OSHA will report on its efforts to the Committee and the Secretary or designee.

(7) SUBCOMMITTEE BALANCE
